Office Hours: TBD [see survey!]

Class Meeting:
Videos will be posted MTW June 22 – July 22
Location: All over this green Earth, ideally in a quiet room

Course Description:

This is an introductory level philosophy course in contemporary political philosophy for majors and nonmajors. This course deals with normative questions: rather than asking how the world is arranged, we will focus on asking how it ought to be arranged. Because these are normative or ethical questions this course fits into the wider field of moral philosophy or value theory.

This course begins with a brief introduction to political philosophy wherein we will look at two tools of philosophy, deductive argument and thought experiments. In addition, I'll give you all a quick and dirty introduction to moral philosophy. In the second part of the course we will focus on the authority of the state (or it’s lack). We will discuss how to understand freedom, the authority of democracy, and will even consider some anarchist objections to the state generally. We then turn our attention to the economy and distributive justice. Here we will evaluate justifications for capitalist and socialist property schemes as well as the justification of the market. In the last part of this course we will look at several different topics of applied political theory. Topics in this section will include: global poverty and effective altruism, the moral standing of non-human animals and the permissibility of eating them, power and oppression, epistemic injustice, and the justifiability of rioting (even in democratic states).

Course Objectives: this course enables students to:

(1) Evaluate the validity and soundness of arguments.
(2) Contrast competing solutions to political questions offered by various political theories.
(3) Interrogate and identify the core normative claims underlying their own political positions.
(4) Assess the justifiability of these claims.

In addition, students will acquire a background in important areas of philosophy and political theory including; critical reasoning, political ideologies including liberalism, republicanism, libertarianism, and anarchism, justifications of capitalism and socialism, and applied questions related to poverty and our duties to the poor, the status of non-human animals, and the experience of oppression, and the legitimacy of riot.

Office Hours:

During my office hours I will be sitting quietly behind a desk, staring at a wall unless students come to meet with me. This time is meant for you to ask questions, discuss philosophy, or just hang out. It is your time, and you do not need an excuse or any clarity about what you want to do. I request, but do not require, that you send me an email alerting me to when you want to come, and if you happen to know, what you plan to discuss.

If for whatever reason you cannot make my regular office hours, please send me an email asap with a range of time that you could meet, and we will try to work something out!

Students with Disabilities:

Any student needing accommodations should speak directly to AccessibleNU ((847) 467-5530 or accessiblenu@northwestern.edu) and to me as early as possible in the quarter. Be aware that AccessibleNU will help arrange reasonable accommodations for both physical and mental health concerns. Barring unforeseen circumstances, any necessary arrangements should be made within in the first week of class. All discussions will remain confidential.

<td>Discussion Boards (or Live Discussion Alternative)</td>
<td>Each week there will be three discussion boards (1 for each class). These will be open for 1 week. You should aim to participate in all discussions, but at minimum, must participate in 80% of them. Alternatively, there will be a live discussion section each week (pending survey results) Individuals can attend and participate in this section to meet their weekly participation goals, or participate in the three weekly discussion boards. It is permissible to utilize the discussion boards</td>
<td>Discussion Boards will open Monday of each Week and close the following Sunday except during week 5. Week 5 discussion will open Monday and close Friday, the 25th at midnight.</td>

in some weeks and live discussions in other weeks. Of course, you’re welcome (and encouraged) to do both!

Rawls Game
In lieu of one day of readings and lecture we will have a (optional)* live meeting where we will play out a philosophy experiment together. Participation in the session amounts to a perfect score.

Grading: Attendance and participation in this live section will garner full points. Because this class is asynchronous, students will have the option to complete a 5-page paper on Rawlsian Political Philosophy which will be graded as normal.

First Paper Outline
This outline must be on a topic related to the Authority (and the State).

Second Paper Outline
This outline must be on a topic related to the Economy

Third Paper Outline
This outline must be on a topic related to Applied Political Philosophy

Final Paper
This is a “5-page paper written in prose on any topic related to the State, Economy, or Applied Political Philosophy

Fostering an Online Learning Community

This course is designed to help each of you meet each of our learning goals. A large part of achieving these learning goals is actively engaging with our course materials. Active participation (in our case, informal Canvas participation tasks, discussion during synchronous Zoom class sessions, and engagement in office hours) is proven to boost retention, speed up the learning process, and facilitate creative thinking, among other things.

Most of all, the truths of the texts we are reading are not delivered form on high. We need to engage critically with our texts; in other words, we need to practice doing philosophy. I strongly encourage you to talk to one another and not just to me. Here are some suggestions and guidelines:

- Practice being patient with others.
- Listen carefully and respectfully.
- Leave others room to speak; don’t monopolize or dominate.
- When agreeing, explaining why you agree.
- Criticize ideas and arguments, not the people who offer them.

During our Zoom meetings, please endeavor to stay on task and be present! Do not spend our class time checking email or browsing other windows on your screen. I know this is difficult. For this reason, we will try to take breaks as needed. I will aim for quality of our meetings, not quantity of time. The more focused we can be, the more effectively we can learn.

Practice makes perfect. Many of us will be taking online classes in the academic year to come. Take this class as an opportunity to reflect on your own learning, to practice time management, and to see what works for you. Please also consult Northwestern’s Student Resources for Remote Learning.
